Hi Friend,

Here's an interesting statistic: According to marriage expert, John Gottman, 69% of relationship conflict is unsolvable.

These are perpetual problems that stem from fundamental differences in beliefs or personality. They range from significant issues, like what country you will live in as a couple, to the way you hang up the clothes.

See how creative couples deal with these recurring issues in a way that turns the greatest sources of conflict into the greatest sources of love and intimacy.

This short video explains it all.
